JULY 2014 Newsletter

Happy Belated Fourth of July or Independence Day! We hope everyone had an enjoyable June and a safe memorable Fourth of July. 238 years ago, our forefathers signed the Declaration of Independence paving the way for our freedom we enjoy this day. May God continue to bless our country and those that serve to protect us.

A basic Carrying Concealed Handgun class will be conducted this month. Saturday, July 19th., in Homer, LA at DWCC. Those interested in attending can call 318-465-0633 for a registration form or for more information simply go online to our website, www.defensivetraining.us, and register. Two weeks after that, we are planning on conducting our weekend (Friday, Aug. 1st & Saturday, Aug. 2nd) of "Surviving Conflict". Friday evening and all day Saturday we will be offering not only a basic Carrying Concealed Handgun class but an Advanced Carrying Concealed Weapons course, a Personal Safety course, and a Surviving a Conflict class. You will not want to miss this event! Registration fee not only covers the material and training offered but also an evening meal for Friday and a lunch on Saturday. More information on the courses being offered can be obtained through our website. We hope to see some of you that have attended our basic CCH class that weekend.

Last month we talked about the unintentional shooting in a Walmart in our country and perhaps how it could of happened, then about two weeks ago, Target, a major discount distributor, asked shoppers not to bring their guns in their stores. What!?!?! Did not want those who are exercising their constitutional right to legally carry conceal to not bring their concealed firearm in their store if shopping there. Wonder if they are going to offer visisble armed security throughout the store? Wonder if they were including the ill reputre to not carry their guns inside the store? Give me a break. So I guess if you drive to Target in your car and in the parking lot you unintentionally run into another car, Target will be asking shoppers then to not drive their car to their stores and will have to take a bus. What some people in corporate offices can come up with.

Read where a firearm retailer at a gun show in our country unintentionally shot a woman looking at one of their firearms. You have got to be kidding! We learned that this wasn't an isolated incident and that it has occurred in other gun shows throughout the nation. Looks like we need tougher restrictions on those that want to sell guns and stricter requirements on those that want to teach CCH classes. We know that some of you that have attended our classes have attended other CCH courses elsewhere, and you have to say that Golden Eagle Training & Safety not only offers a longer and more informative course but consistently stress firearms safety and we will continue to do so.

Okay, short but sweet this month. Spread the word on our basic CCH class July 19th and make plans to attend our "Surviving a Conflict" seminar. Visit our website and/or Facebook page for further details. Have a safe and enjoyable remaining month and hope to see most of you soon again. As always, if we can be of any assistance in any way, do not hesitate to contact us.
